

Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW) Negotiations

Whereas: CUPW has been in negotiations with Canada Post (CP) for some 7 months. And:

Whereas: C. P. a profitable crown corporation is demanding major concession including a form of two tier wage for new employees. And:

Whereas: The Unions final position on a new collective agreement has been rejected by management, forcing the Union to exercise its 94% strike vote. Now:

Therefore be it Resolved:

The Campbell River Courtenay & District Labour Council (CRC&DLC) demand Canada Post negotiates a fair and decent contract with no concessions. And:

Be it Further Resolved:

The CRC&DLC support any actions deemed necessary by CUPW to win a just contract. And:

Be it Finally Resolved:

The CRC&DLC call on our affiliated Unions and Friends to support CUPW, in the fight to defend their collective agreement with Canada Post.
